OUT OF MY WINDOW

Once more I am the herald of good tidings, as Muka Studio presents The Event Of The Year. Forget coleslaw dolls, Santa Parades, The Top Ten. Even the launching of the new Seasons Fashions can safely be considered a minor happening as Muka Studio brings you once more its annual show for young people.
As we enter a new decade artist have been given a chance to express their dreams of the past, present and future on lithographic stone, to bring young people aged 5 to 18 (not yet 19) a show with the theme "Past, Present and Future".
When artists look backward in time they don't see characters straight form comic strips, nor when they look at the present do their observations take the form of nursery wall characters, nor do they, as they glimpse into the future in their crystal balls, paint pallets, jars for cleaning brushes and lithographic stones, see Disneyland. For this reason we asked them (as in previous years) not to make their work goo goo gah gah (as we professionals call it) but REAL ART.
We have even more than in previous years laid an emphasis on the multi cultural aspects of our society.
Some people have been known to believe in a system of integrating cultures into a giant mash. Personally I believe there is more to be gained by excepting each culture and learning from it individually, unity in diversity so to write, and that there is a certain wealth to be found in variety. This year's show for young people clearly displays this wealth of cultural variety in the works of Maori, Samoan, Chinese, Indian and Western artists.

We have.....

Don Binney	Mary McIntyre
Philippa Blair	Richard McWhannell
Nigel Brown	John Nicol
Jenny Dolezel	Nina Patel
Fatu Feu'u	Claudia Pond-Eyly
Dick Frizzell	Kura Rewiri-Thorson
Alan Gilderdale	Sylvia Siddell
Paul Hartigan	Xiao X Wang
Lily Aitu Laita	Pamela Wolfe
Barry Lett

PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE
A SHOW OF LITHOGRAPHS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE will open at the Regent of Auckland, Albert street, on December 3th at 4 o'clock.
Why the Regent you may well ask.
The simple fact is our long suffering humble home/studio/gallery can only fit so many people, (young people) no matter how small they are, without bursting at the seams. Under the added weight of the artists, who will be present this time to sign their work and talk to the young collectors, it would surely collapse. And since we are expecting even more people than in previous years the poor thing would disintegrate without doubt, completely and utterly, leaving us homeless. And so the whole affair has been shifted to the Regent...

On the move...

the Regent AUCKLAND

The Regent of Auckland is delighted to host a project as worthwhile as Muka Youth Prints.

The hotel's recognition of the important role of art is manifested in the use of art within its walls and Muka's encouragement of youth to collect art works is to be commended.

We look forward to supporting this unique event and giving it the credence it deserves.

Meet you here on December 3 ...

NEW WORK - NEW WORK - NEW

During the last month we have been busy producing
4 major new prints with Michel Tuffer
1 multicolour print with Jenny Doleze
2 new lithographs withFatu Feu'u.

One of these or one of the 250 or so other prints we stock might very well make the ideal Xmas present for an...ADULT.

IMPORTANT

Unless a major sponsor is found , raising costs will sadly force this year's "Youth Prints" series to be th last of its kind.....
