

Together, we can make this city better than before.

We live in a city with multiple and complex priorities, but art gives us hope and helps define who we are. Our city's art collection reflects the generosity of others before us.

Now, we'd love your help to mark our time in this city.

It's our chance to speak to the future and build a collection for all.

Mō tātou, ā, mō kā uri ā muri ake nei.
For us and our children after us.

What have we been up to?

In 2011, the Gallery building was closed for five years for earthquake-related repairs. During this time, we kept art in the hearts and minds of our community with pop-up exhibitions around the city, art installations, school visits and community events. Despite being closed, we were determined to remain New Zealand's best-loved and most-visited gallery.

In 2013, the Christchurch Art Gallery Foundation launched an innovative approach to support our ambitions for the collection with a crowd-funding mission to acquire Michael Parekowhai's Chapman's Homer—a work that had captured the hearts and minds of Christchurch when we first displayed it in the city's post-quake red zone. This was the first of five great works to mark our five years of closure.

Since then, the Foundation has helped us acquire four more important works—Bill Culbert's Bebop, Martin Creed's Work No. 2314, Bridget Riley's Cosmos and a commissioned work by Ron Mueck due to arrive late 2018. The Foundation is also well on the way to reach an ambitious $5million target to kick start an endowment that will ensure that the Gallery can continue to build a great collection well into the future.

Our doors opened again in December 2015, and it's great to be home in the building that we love. Our visitors are back, and our exhibitions are on a roll!

We now look to the future.

We want to close the gap in our $5 million TOGETHER endowment (we've secured $3 million already).

Help build a collection that makes us proud and tells our story.

We're looking for 30 new members to join our 170-strong TOGETHER community. Commit to us for five years, and we'll give you five years of good times around art!
